Mandy lives on a farm, in a village.
This is Mandy's farm.

This is a map of the farm.

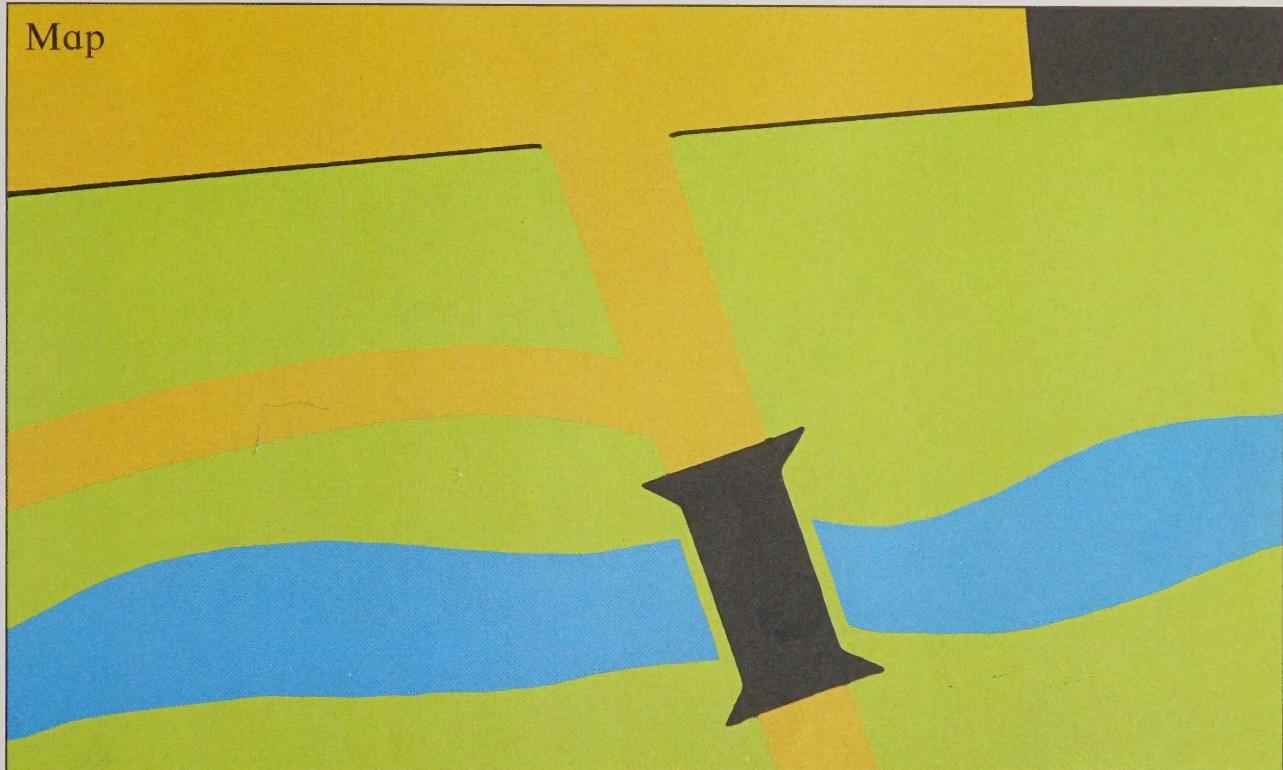

Can you find the house
and the trees?

On her way to school,
Mandy goes over the bridge
that crosses the stream.

Map

Look at the map.
Can you find the bridge?

She walks on the footpath by the road.
On one side is the wood.
On the other side are fields.

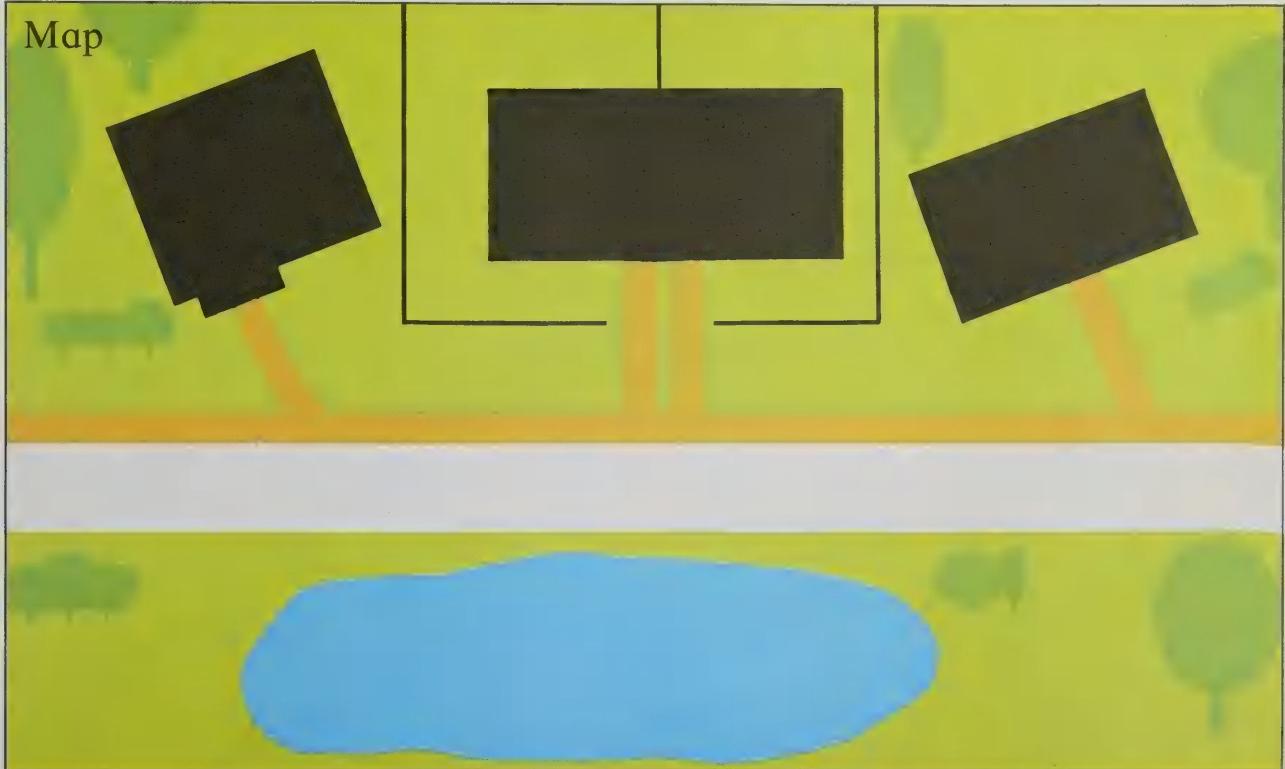

Map

She passes the cottages
and the village pond.

Map

Ponds, rivers, lakes and the sea
are often blue on a map.

Then she comes to the level-crossing gates and the railway line.

Railway lines are usually black and white on a map.

She walks along the path, past the inn and the church.

Map

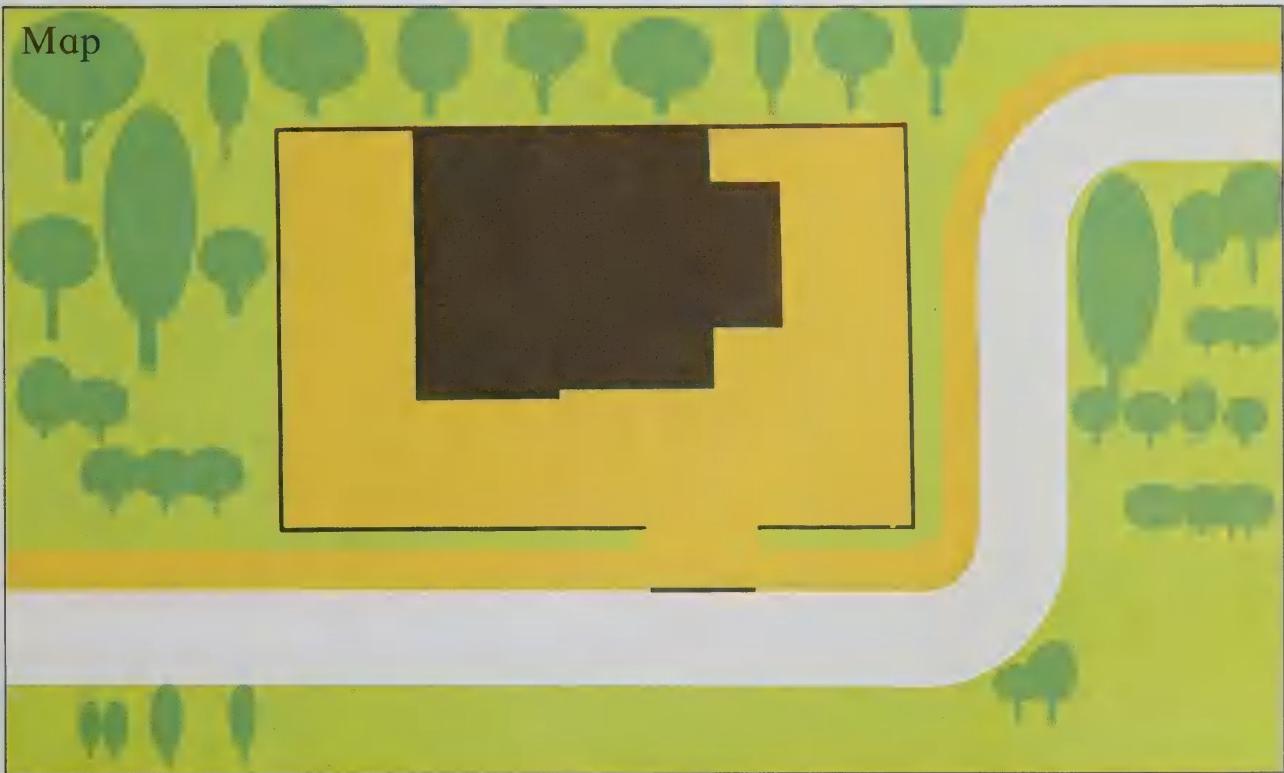

Look at the shape of the church.

Then she goes into the school yard.
Mandy's school is small. There are only two teachers and thirty children.

Map

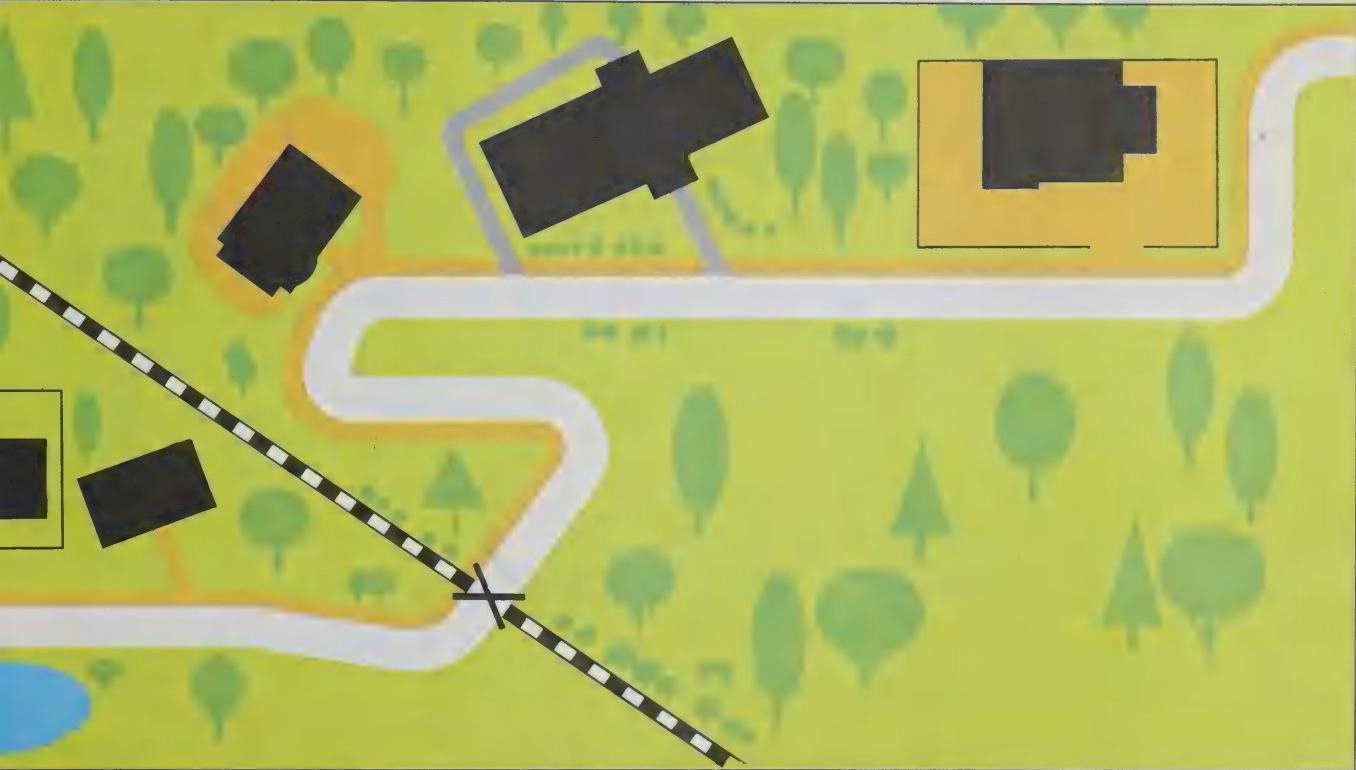

Have you seen a map or a plan
of your school?

Map

This is a map of the whole village.

Can you find these things?
Mandy's farm and her school, the level-crossing and the church.

Map signs

Sometimes there is not room on a map
to draw all the shapes.

Then the map-maker uses special map signs.

Look at the map.

Find the map sign for a bridge,

for a wood,

for a level-crossing,

for a pond,

for a church,

for a school,

for a river.

Mandy's cousin Mark lives in a town. She often goes to stay with him. His house is on a busy road near the swimming bath.

Map

Can you see the cross-roads?
Find the steps of the swimming bath on the map.

Sometimes Mandy and Mark go to the park.

Map

Which is the playground?

Mark's father takes them to the market. They pass the Town Hall, the police station, the hospital and the shops.

Map

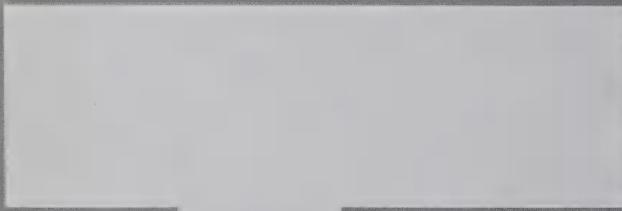

Which is the police station?

Near the market square is the big car park.

Do you know the sign for a car park?

Map

The railway station
is near the market square, too.

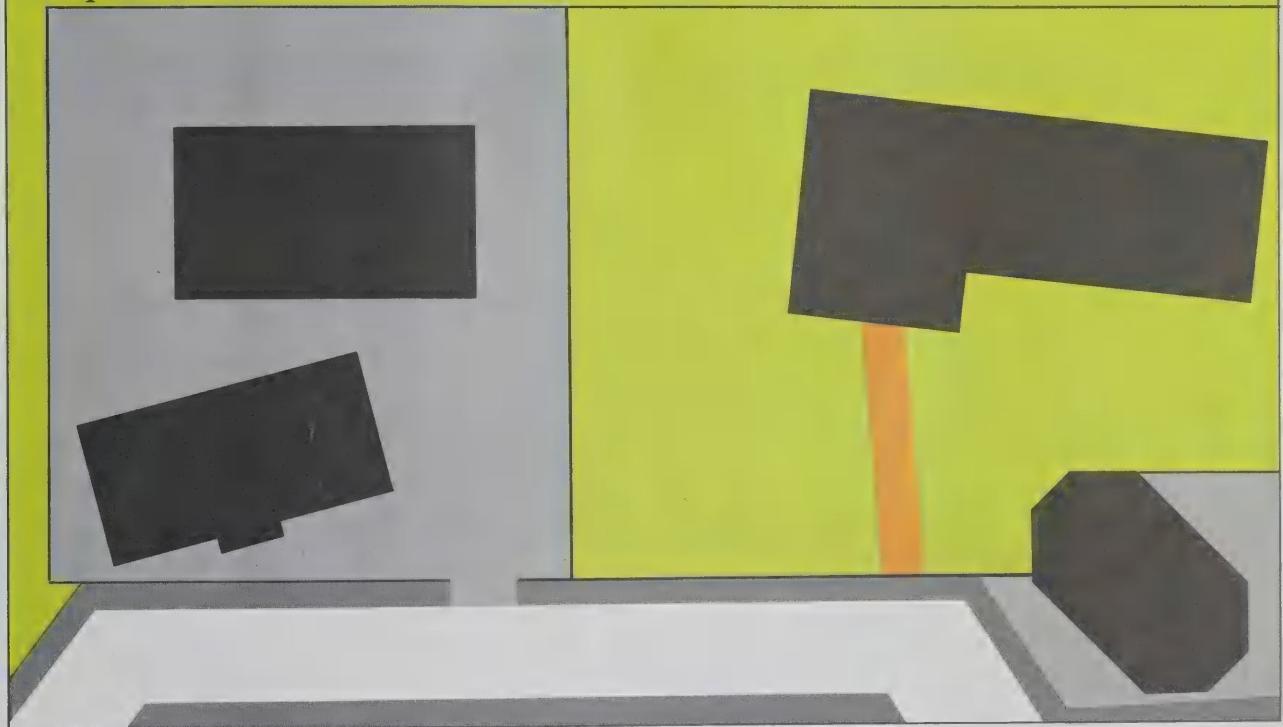

Map

On their way to the library they pass
the new flats and Mark's school.
His school is very big. More than 700 children go there.

Map

Where are the playing fields?

This is a map of the town.

Can you find the station, the hospital and the car park?

More map signs

Find the map sign for a hospital, for a railway station, for a town hall, for a park.

MAPS FOR MANDY AND MARK

Jenny Taylor
and
Terry Ingleby

This book provides an introduction to map work for top infant and lower junior children. It enables the child to see and understand the relationship between a full colour photograph and a simple map of the same scene, and familiarises the child with basic map language.

Also on map work:

Playing with Plans Michael Storm

The book enables children to understand why we need plans to communicate certain information and helps them relate various symbols on the plans to everyday things.
